Yana Jacobs began her career in the mental health field as an art therapy student intern and then staff member working at Soteria House in the mid 1970’s. Soteria was an NIMH funded research grant for young people having a “first break”. Soteria was a pilot study to support people without the use of psychotropic medications. Yana’s professional belief system was informed by her firsthand experiences working at Soteria. She continued to pursue a career in the mental health public sector first as a “crisis worker” and eventually as the Chief of Adult Services for the County of Santa Cruz Mental Health Department. She has spent her career as a fierce advocate and ally in the Peer Movement. Yana has a passion for “being with” people and sitting with whatever comes up. Yana is a proponent of moving through the process of altered/chaotic states by being present and listening. She has always tried to make a difference by setting an example of treating all people with dignity and respect and not using labels to define who we are. Yana wrote a SAMHSA transformation grant for Santa Cruz County which funded the first Peer Respite house in California, Second Story, opened in 2010. After over 30 years working in the “mainstream” system of care, she retired from public service and went to work for the Foundation for Excellence in Mental Health Care, now “Open Excellence, a not-for-profit group with a mission to transform the mainstream to be more person centered. She is now officially retired in the mountains of Santa Cruz, CA where she plays her cello and enjoys long walks in the woods. She promised the community that she would always support anyone interested in starting a Soteria House.
